MYSTERIOUS ATTACKS

Entire Police Force of Chicago Aroused to Action.

FOUR MEN WERE KILLED

One Man Found on Doorstep of His Home with Stiletto Wounds in His Body—The Authorities Are Baffled as to the Perpetrator.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Scattering mysterious assaults in which four persons were killed and another fatally wounded aroused the entire police force to energetic action Monday. The victims in the affairs were:

Fusarto Rocco, found on the doorstep of his home, 129 Austin avenue, with two stiletto wounds in his chest. He had been instantly killed by the knife thrusts.

Edward Smith, a policeman, living at 607 Warren avenue, was shot and killed by an unknown man while walking a short distance from his house.

John L. Balfour, of 280 Thirty-second street, was found dead on the Illinois Central tracks, fifty feet north of the Thirty-First street suburban station. The head had been cut off by a passing train.

It is believed Balfour committed suicide, but there are circumstances that make this doubtful.

John Naughton, 3736 Lowe avenue, died in the hospital after being assaulted by three strangers at Seventy-seventh street and Lowe.

William Dolan, [illegible] county hospital [illegible] in the abdomen. Dolan was [illegible] and said that he had been robbed by three men.

In none of the cases have the police been able to obtain the slightest clew to the perpetrators of these crimes.

ALABAMA PROHIBITION.

Not Likely To Become Effective for Some Time Yet.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 6.—With the signing of the early closing bill by the governor, a duty which he has performed, the liquor fight in the present session of the legislature, and probably for several years to come, has been ended.

This much seems certain: The prohibition bill on the house calendar cannot get out now before adjournment, and the one or two little measures that are pending will all be signed, though they are not a part of the general scheme. These latter include a prohibition of any druggist selling more than four ounces a day to any one man on prescription and hop jack measures that apply almost wholly to Jefferson county.

It seems to have been agreed among the anti-whisky forces that three measures were to be pushed—local option by counties, prevention of shipments to prohibition territory, and the early closing proposition.

While there was much of a fight against all of them, the greatest protest came from business men, who feared that the anti-shipping bill would simply mean the transfer of the trade to other states that could not be restrained because of the interstate commerce laws. Because of this, many men who really are against liquors being sold were opposed to the measure. However, with the adoption of prohibition in Georgia this will be very much minimized.

Saratoga Races Begin.

New York, Aug. 6.—The Saratoga racing season began Monday, with the running of the $10,000 Saratoga handicap as the feature of the opening. The meeting, which is twenty-two days' racing, will distribute more than a quarter of a million dollars in prizes. The prize list for the first six days' amounts to $60,000.

Launch Run Down.

Newport News, Aug. 6.—Late Sunday the gasoline launch Greyhound, near the exposition grounds, was run down by a barge and three brothers and a child were drowned. Their names are Edward, G. Herbert, Jno. L. and Clifton Edward Garrett.

DIAMONDS IN ARKANSAS.

Hundred and Forty Sparklers Found in Pike County.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 6.—Diamonds to the number of 140 have been picked up in Pike county, Arkansas, two and a half miles from Murfreesboro. The first find of the diamonds was made several months ago by John Wesley Bridgeton on his farm. He sent some to Charles S. Stifft, a jeweler and cameoed merchant of Little Rock.

They were pronounced genuine first by him, afterwards by the diamond experts of Normod Jaccard & Kitz company, and Bolland & Sons, of St. Louis, by Arnstein Bros. & Co., of New York, and finally by Dr. George F. Kunzite, vice president of the geological survey, who, however, stated that a single diamond had been found in twenty-nine different places in the United States, but they were of glacial or drift origin. He would not go on record, therefore, as giving an opinion as to the value of the find.

Later he visited the Pike county field with Dr. H. S. Washington, the geologist of New York, and found the strata like that of the Kimberly mine, volcanic, and containing the diamond bearing clay. He then authorized the use of his name as to the genuineness of the diamond.

While diamonds have been found before singly, this is said to be the first discovery in America of diamonds in quantity or in volcanic diamond-bearing blue earth.

LOST ON MONT BLANC.

Entire Company of Soldiers Had a Narrow Escape.

Geneva, Aug. 6.—While engaged in maneuvers on a spur of the Mont Blanc range of mountains an entire company of a French regiment, the Eleventh Chasseurs Alpins, nearly walked over a precipice.

The company, which was under the command of Colonel Vassoise, had spent the morning on the mountain, and were about to return, when they found they had lost their bearings. To made matters worse, a thick mist fell, and the soldiers went hopelessly astray. They wandered about for some time in the mist, linking hands, so as to keep together.

One of the soldiers named Conquil gave a loud shout and disappeared. His warning stopped his companions, who found themselves on the brink of a steep precipice.

There they waited until the mist lifted. The man who had fallen over the precipice was found later in a dying condition. The rest of the soldiers reached the valley in safety.

UNDER FIFTEEN TONS OF HAY.

Woman Existed For a Week Without Food or Water.

Marion, O., Aug. 6.—After being buried under 15 tons of hay for a week, without food or water, during which time a bloodhound and hundreds of searchers passed within a few feet of her, Miss N. A. Black, a Pittsburg school teacher, who, last Monday evening left a local sanitarium, was found Sunday. She will probably recover.

She was discovered on a farm close to an old hay barn, where all trace of her had been lost last Tuesday.

Miss Black says she took a stroll into the country and when dusk was falling, started home. It was chilly and she was but thinly clad. She entered a barn, got inside the hay and fell asleep.

Tuesday morning the owner of the barn began filling the barn with new hay, and by night it was full to the rafters. Sunday, almost crazed by thirst, the woman burrowed out of the barn, but was so weak she fell where she was found.

Electric Bolt Broke His Neck.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 6.—At Fulton, a small town on the St. Johns river, 15 miles from here, Charles Leidy, Jr., 14 years of age, was killed by a stroke of lightning, the bolt running down the front of a building and entering a door. It struck the boy on the neck, breaking the spinal cord. Three others in the building were rendered unconscious, but all recovered within an hour.

LIKE RATS IN TRAP

Forty Persons Drown In River In France.

TRAIN FELL FROM A BRIDGE

As Train Was Entering a Bridge Over the Loire River, It Jumped the Track, Falling Fifty Feet Into the Water.

Angiers, France, Aug. 6.—Forty passengers in a third-class railroad car, and the engineer of the train, were drowned Sunday afternoon in a railroad accident three miles southeast of this town.

The locomotive of a crowded local train jumped the track when entering the bridge over the river Loire at Les Ponts de Ce. The stone railing gave way and the engine plunged into the river fifty feet below, dragging down with it its tender and the baggage and third-class cars.

Fortunely no other cars went into the water, as the coupling between the second and third cars broke.

The conductor and fireman were the only persons whose lives were saved. They escaped by swimming.

The third-class car was well filled with passengers, but although part of the roof was blown off by the confined air as it sank, not a single passenger extricated himself and all were drowned like rats in a trap.

The engineer perished beneath the locomotive.

AN ADAMLESS EDEN.

Strenuous Life Killing the Men of Chicago—Women Multiply.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The strenuous life is killing the men of Chicago at a tremendous rate, while the women of the city are increasing their longevity by the simple life. In the official health bulletin Saturday, Health Commissioner Evans says that a few years will see Chicago an Adamless Eden.

Commissioner Evans draws his conclusions from the death rate in the city of Chicago for twenty years, and particularly in the last seven months when five members of the stronger sex died for every two of the fairer.

Dr. Evans makes the startling statement that during the last seven months of 1907 in Chicago about 12,000 men succumbed as compared to 8,000 women.

He says that in the last year the rate of difference in the death rate between men and women has been 30 as against less than 10 per cent, twenty years ago.

The cause of this is attributed by the physician to be the strenuous life. Its contributory causes are the lunch, constant exposure, and carelessness.

ALABAMA COTTON CROP.

Has Greatly Improved Within the Last Two Weeks.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 6.—President W. H. Seymour, of the Alabama section of the cotton association and statistician of the Alabama state cotton bureau, made public on Monday letters from all counties in which it is shown that the average cotton crop is far ahead of two weeks ago, and the size of the crop will depend upon the lateness of frost.

There has been too much rain in some sections with consequent shedding but not general.

The average condition is somewhere between seventy and seventy-five, with the outlook for about 1,100,000 bales for the state. As a whole, the reports indicate general improvement in marked degree as a result of two weeks of fine weather.

Capitalized at $10,000,000.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 6.—A number of French and Swiss capitalists have organized a company capitalized at $10,000,000 for the development of iron in this section of Georgia and South Carolina. Improvements on the Savannah river amounting to several millions of dollars will be asked for by the company. This request, it is believed, will be granted.

CRITICAL POSITION.

Status of Affairs Regarding Southern Railway In Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 6.—The Southern railway is in a tangle [illegible] in Alabama. It has been deprived of the right to do business in the state, and a hearing is on before the state railroad commission on a proposition to make the company build a depot at Gadsdenville, in Cherokee county, and give regular service there, which is on a spur track built to haul ore with practically no business except that.

J. S. B. Thompson, of Atlanta, Ga., assistant to the president of the Southern, who is here, remarked on the railroad situation. He is endeavoring to prevent the commission from making an order until there is a better understanding of the situation.

Nothing has come out of the situation with regard to the revocation of the license of the company. Mr. Thompson says he knows nothing of what will be the outcome. He came here to look after the commission case and is now handling the other features. However, he was in consultation with A. M. Tunstall, state attorney for the system, and they are supposed to have gone over the ground.

"There is nothing to make public at this time, so far as I know," said Mr. Thompson.

EDITOR KILLED.

Arkansas Newspaper Man Shot by an Unknown Assassin.

Helena, Ark., Aug. 6.—J. M. Scott, city editor of The Helena World, was found dead on the sidewalk Sunday morning.

Two bullets had entered his head, and although he lived a few hours after being found, was unable to make a statement. So far no clew to the assassin exists.

A month ago an attempt was made to kill Mr. Scott. He was attracted to the rear of his office by a noise and on approaching to ascertain the cause, two shots were fired at him. He began firing in return, and his assailants fled. He was not able to identify them.

It is generally believed that the killing was due to a personal quarrel, and that it had no connection with the crusade of the World on the police department some months ago, which forced the resignation of the chief of police, who afterwards attempted to commit suicide.

EX-GOVERNOR KILLED.

Platigorisk, Caucasia, Aug. 6.—General Karakozoff, ex-governor general of Odessa, was shot and killed in the center of the town early Monday morning. The assassin escaped.

General Karakozoff was commander of the Lubna dragoons, when, on July 3, 1905, he was appointed Governor-general of Odessa. Early in August of the same year he banished M. Yarosohanko, mayor of Odessa, for having represented Odessa at the Moscow Zemstov congress, and later he took severe measures to repress disturbances, instructing the police to fire directly into the mob. He was succeeded as governor general by General Kaulbars on October 23, 1905.

Will Not Change Policy.

Turin, Italy, Aug. 6.—The Stampan has printed an interview with Premier Giolitti in which he was quoted as reiterating that the government would not change its policy on account of the anti-clerical agitation in Italy. He added that the strictest orders had been issued to prevent violence and protect the churches, convents and other religious property. The government would not interfere in any fashion.

Will Establish Seminary.

Havana, Aug. 6.—Albion B. Knight, the Episcopal bishop of the missionary district of Cuba, will establish a seminary in Havana to prepare native men of Cuba for the ministry. According to his plans it will be opened about September 1. It will hold its sessions in the Episcopal school building at Jesus Del Monte, Havana, where Dean is now [illegible] chief lay worker.

OUTRAGES CONTINUE

New York Public In Frenzy of Excitement.

MORE CRIMES REPORTED

Governor Hughes May Be Asked to Order Out Militia to Aid In Suppressing the Numerous Criminal Attacks in City.

New York, Aug. 6.—The fact that Sunday mob vengeance held away, and lynching was narrowly averted, was added to the seriousness of the situation in this city caused by the remarkable series of crimes in which women and young girls are the victims.

The mob attacks resulted in a state of public exasperation approaching frenzy which, it is feared, may easily lead to serious disorders. Prompt action by the police alone saved the two men accused on Sunday, from summary justice, especially in the case of George Koerner, a Russian bookbinder, around whose neck a mob had tied a rope when the police reached the scene in force.

It is noteworthy that the other man attacked, Louis Conconela, was innocent of any attempt at crime, and indicates how readily a mistake can be made in time of public agitation or excitement.

The police are bending every effort to give adequate protection, and to further this end, one thousand plain clothes men have been scattered about the city, particularly in the congested quarters, the scene of most of the assaults.

The first organized body to take up the question is the Central Federated Union, which has appointed a committee to call on the mayor with a demand that he take action that will put a stop upon the attacks of children. It was stated that if the city authorities do not quickly stop the crimes, Governor Hughes will be appealed to.

A negro delegate spoke at the meeting which the committee was appointed, in praise of "quick justice" of the south. This is significant of the feeling that exists in some quarters. Another suggestion made at the meeting was that unless the attacks were quickly stopped, the governor should call out the state militia.

Late Sunday night the police received news of another attack. It occurred in the suburb of Richmond Hill. Jennie Smith, 28 years old, was attacked by two men, while on her way home. Her screams brought assistance and one of the assailants was captured.

One mad died Monday as the result of race riots which started Sunday over a ten-cent bet on a ball game. The dead man is John McCue, a negro, who was badly beaten in the fight with the whites. More than a score of persons are recovering from injuries received in the riot.

No further disorders as the result of outbreaks of mob violence on the assailants of women and children were reported early Monday morning.

Many parents are keeping their children indoors while on the East Side, where Katie Tietschler was maltreated and murdered, the thousand of children play in the streets are under the watchful eyes of mothers sitting at the windows and on the door steps. The order given to all the plain clothes men to give their whole attention to patrolling the streets indicates the seriousness of the situation. The numerous attacks on children and the resulting morbidness developed on investigations of the cases, the police think, may develop a homicidal mania and make itself manifest in further attacks and assaults.

Drowned in Pond.

Atlanta, Aug. 6.—Edgar Honey, a young white man, eighteen years old, living near the Exposition cotton mills, was drowned Sunday shortly after noon in a pond at East Point, known as Hatcock pond, while in bathing with several other young men, and W. P. Honey, his brother, had a narrow escape from the same fate.

MOTHERHOOD

MRS. JAMES CHESTER

The first requisite of a good mother is good health and the expectation of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as a woman who is in poor physical condition transmits to her children the messages of a poor constitution.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which is made from native roots and herbs more successfully than by any other medicine because it gives tone and strength to the entire feminine organism, cures displacements, ovarian and inflammation, and the result is less suffering and more children healthy at birth. For more than thirty years has been the standby of American mothers in preparing for childbirth.

Now what Mrs. James Chester of 417 W. 35th St., New York says in this letter—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish every expectant mother knew about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A neighbor who had learned of its great value at this trying period of a woman's life urged me to try it, and I did so, and I cannot say enough in regard to the good it did me. I recovered quickly and am in the best of health now."

It has cured almost every form of Female Complaints, Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Failing and Displacements, Inflammation, Ulcerations and Organic Diseases of Women, and is invaluable in preparing for Childbirth and during the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

NOTABLE NUMBER OF POPULAR PAPER

Special Issue of Florida's Greatest Industrial Journal.

THE INDUSTRIAL RECORD

The Issue Comprises 132 Pages Devoted to Immigration—Is Handsomely Illustrated and Contains Special Articles by Gov. Broward and Others.

A notable instances of modern journalistic enterprise is that afforded by the monumental Immigration number of The Industrial Record, published in Jacksonville, which has just been issued; and which, it may safely be said, covers the field of industry in this State in a manner that leaves little to be desired.

From cover to cover this issue comprises some 132 pages, and, as The Times-Union, in a recent "appreciation," well says:

"From cover, this issue comprises some 132 pages, and, as The Times-Union, in a recent "appreciation," well says.

"It is doubtful, indeed, if any trade publication in the United States, including the great commercial papers of New York and Chicago, has ever put out an edition more ably compiled, and more widely circulated. This special edition of The Industrial Record represents an expenditure of several thousand dollars, and, aside from its size and its magnificent typographical appearance, it covers the scope of its particular subject matter so thoroughly that it is compelled to be of great, almost immeasurable benefit to the general interests of Florida."

Florida now stands at the parting of the ways, and the future of the State and its people must inevitably be determined by the course pursued by those to whom our destines are now confided; and no better means could be devised for [illegible] those interest[illegible] than those [illegible] by this issue [illegible] ord.

This number is [illegible] troductory article from the pe[illegible] ur. James A. Hollomon, editor-in-chief of the paper, which is in itself an epitome of the entire edition, and which sets forth in unmistakable terms the nature of Florida's advantages and the opportunities offered here to the homeseeker and immigrant. And that this introduction is given practical force is indicated by the fact that it is printed not only in English, but in German, Italian and Swedish.

Among the notable features of this issue of The Record is a forcible article from Governor Broward, in which the advantages of the State are definitely set forth, together with special articles on various phases of the Southern immigration question by Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, by Immigration Commissioner Watson of South Carolina, Immigration Commission Bruner of North Carolina, Edwin Brobston of Jacksonville, Chairman Corbett of the Jacksonville Board of Trade Immigration Committee and many others. These articles were prepared with great care by their respective authors, and are well illustrated in The Record's pages. The paper of Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia is an interesting review of his study of the immigration question during his recent trip to Europe, and is an article especially prepared for The Industrial Record that the most famous magazines of this country would have paid a big price to secure.

This epoch-making issue of Florida's progressive industrial journal has been so conceived and carried out as to leave no section, no industry and no resource unregarded. Profusely illustrated and beautifully printed, this number of The Industrial Record is one that should be in the hands of every well-wisher of the State, and which should be spread broadcast throughout the country.

The publishers, The Industrial Record Company of Jacksonville, have put the price of the paper at the very nominal sum of twenty-five cents per copy, which barely covers the actual cost of manufacture. Fifty thousand copies of the book have already been printed, and the forms are being held in anticipation of a demand for additional copies.

The brick and other material is being placed on the grounds for the new Hill building, corner East Main and East Liberty streets, and work will begin in a day or two.

This building will be, when completed, one of the most modern in the State. It will be used, it is understood, for a department store, and will have a complete front of plate glass on both streets.

The brickwork of the front of the building will be of the highest order of pressed brick, and the finishing throughout will be in proportion. While nothing authentic has been learned, it is stated that the contract price is $20,000, which should provide for an excellent place.

CLAY TURPENTINE CUP.

The United States Department of Agriculture has issued the following bulletin on the use of the turpentine cup:

Many million turpentine cups are used in the pine forests of the South each year. The flow of resin from the cups and gutters of eight million are gathered each year. These simple-looking cups, which are not unlike flower pots in size and shape, indicate a very highly important change in the previous method of gathering turpentine, due to the need of economizing all forest products and the application of science in an unscientific industry.

The plan of cutting deep boxes in the trees, in which turpentine collects after running down the scarified face, was universal until a few years ago. It was wasteful and destructive. Trees so mutilated rarely stood four years. They continued to live, and they usually did not fall for years, but their value to turpentine producers was small and their value for lumber greatly lessened.

The cup and gutter were devised to take the place of the old wasteful box. The bark is needed, and the tree is left strong and but little injured, galvanized iron gutters leading to a single pot secure the gum from the trees. Instead of the unlimited wood to the southward, these trees are now collected in much the same way as by the old method, it is of better quality, and it commands a higher price. Further than this, trees thus operated upon is believed to stand eight years, instead of three under the old method, and yield more each year. In other words, the tree during its productive life will yield more than the former box and gutter method did not become general use at once. Nor is it universally used yet. The majority of operators cling to what they have been using. But the millions of acres scattered among the pine forests from South Carolina to Louisiana are rapidly showing that the four or five years since the new method was introduced have made a great change in an important industry.

The world depends largely on these pine forests for naval stores. Much of the product is exported. It is worth many millions annually. Turpentine supplies an enormous trade. America can hold this trade, but if it is to do so the valuable southern pine must be cared for. It was this which led to investigations on the part of the Forest Service in the effort to economize in reaping the turpentine crop. Several turpentine operators were foresighted enough to welcome the work, and co-operation between these private interests and the Government foresters led to the introduction of the cup and gutter system.

The turpentine cup encountered prejudice, and at first overcame it slowly. The inventor found it necessary, with his associates, to buy a pottery to make the cups. Potters would not undertake the work. The article was new, was not in demand, and no one cared to take the risk of manufacturing it.

A veteran of the wheel and kiln, more ingenious than the others, at one time half-way consented to make the cups. He said he could turn out 100,000 a year. When told that it was a matter of millions of cups annually, he cut negotiations short, said it was a dream of college men, and that he was there to talk business and not foolishness. That ended it with him.

A pottery was bought near Chattanooga, machines were installed which make eighteen cups a minute each, and the cost per cup has been reduced from four cents, the price when hand made, to 1 6-10 cents.

Manufacturing the cups was only a part of the battle. Operators in the turpentine forests, at the outset, would not touch the article. Then, when a tract of pine was at length secured, a great deal of trouble was had in persuading the laborers to work with the new device.

The cups won the day. Laborers learned to like them, and operators took them up. The source of supply for naval stores, and for all other uses of turpentine and its products, both for this country and for others, is more secure. Pine forests will last longer, produce more turpentine and rosin, and the timber is better.

When trees are boxed, that is, cut deeply, they are weakened. Wind levels them, and they often decay before the arrival of the lumberman, who follows the turpentine operator. Fire attacks the notched trunks of standing trees, and large numbers are lost. The slight mutilation for the cups and gutters does not subject the trees to so great danger, and the lumberman finds them little injured.

CONGRESS ABDICATES.

What is the use of Congress meeting in December, when President Roosevelt and Bert Hopkins, the junior Senator from Illinois, can do all the business? They have just agreed that Congress shall not undertake tariff revision and if they can settle that question in advance without consulting with the 282 other Republican members of Congress there is no good reason why they can't settle the less important questions of appropriations, etc.

Have the Republican members of Congress abdicated in favor of the President and Bert Hopkins or have they delegated the settlement of the tariff issue? It would seem so.

Who will now dare say the Republican representatives of the people are led up to the executive watering trough and forced to drink, by the promise of also having their share of the swill known as public patronage?

Don't be disheartened with our reform administration when you see the cabinet officers and many of the lesser Republican lights running all over the country instead of attending to business. The only way they can keep their places is by strict attention to setting up the pins for delegates that can be handled by Teddy when the time comes. What patriotic Republican can object to such a laudable scheme for perpetuating "my policies" and, of course, Democrats must grin and bear it.

Now that the State governments have taken up the gage of battle cast at them by Secretary Root, that if the States did not do their duty in the control of corporations the general Government would have to do it for them, and are bringing the corporations to time, we may expect another warning from the administration of the danger of State rights and home rule.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WHY HE IS A DEMOCRAT.

John H. Bankhead, the new Senator from Alabama, says that he is a Democrat, and gives his reasons for it, and very good reasons they are. In his speech before the legislature he said he was a Democrat because he believed in the greatest personal liberty consistent with the rights and privileges of others; because he believed in home rule and the rights of the State to regulate its own affairs without interference or dictation from the National Government; because he believed in equal and exact justice to all persons and interests; because he was opposed to a high protective tariff which enriches the few at the expense of the masses, and was the parent of trusts and monopolies. He also expressed himself in no uncertain terms as opposed to Government ownership of railroads, which he denounces as a menace to the life of the nation.

The Republican leaders who have agreed to postpone tariff revision until after the next national election on the score of expediency, must face the dilemma of having placed the good of the party before the welfare of the people.

Too many young men are afflicted with "champagne appetites" who possess only "beer purses." They live beyond their incomes and prey upon the good nature of their friends, and the business public should beware of them.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

Many Local Measures Were Passed by House on Saturday.

Atlanta, Aug. 6.—Saturday's session of the house was [illegible] necessarily by the various members asking [illegible] certain bills [illegible] placed [illegible] time and re-committed [illegible]

With a [illegible] ed from 92 to 105, the house passed a number of local bills and [illegible] number read for a second time in order to facilitate legislation this week.

Those reports of [illegible] committees announced Saturday were [illegible] and a number of these bills read a second time.

Notice was given that on Monday the general tax act, which was reported to the house Friday and read a second time, would be taken up and placed on its passage. This bill, like the appropriation bill, has the right of way over all legislation, and will doubtless consume the entire week or a greater portion of it.

Efforts to have other bills set for special order "by unanimous consent" met with objection by Chairman Wise, of the ways and means committee, who stated that the time before adjournment was too short to allow for special orders.

His objection defeated the request of Mr. Burwell of Hancock, carrying out the express wishes of the railroad committee, that the Hardeman resolution calling for an investigation committee to probe the alleged ownership of the Central of Georgia railroad by the Southern, be set for a special order for Monday immediately following the reading of the house journal of Saturday. The committee on rules was appealed to by special resolution to set this resolution for that time. It is doubted, however, if this is done, so pressing is the time for the general tax act and general appropriation bill to be acted upon. Several other efforts to secure such special orders met with a similar fate.

The report of the committee on constitutional amendments was made to the house, favorably reporting the administration disfranchisement measure, but the effort to have it read a second time, by unanimous consent, was defeated by objection; and so the day ran along with irregular and spasmodic legislation.

To Extend Railroad.

Columbus, Ga., Aug. 6.—The work of constructing the extension of the Chattahoochee Valley railroad northward from West Point, Ga., will begin early next week. The contractors, B. H. Hardaway, of Columbus, and J. W. Wright, Jr., of Union Springs, Ala., are arranging to move laborers to the scene in a day or two. They are to build 16 miles of road and believe that they can have the extension completed by Christmas. Captain Hardaway is also building a power house for some of the cotton mills on the Chattahoochee at West Point.

BURNED CORPSES.

Fanatical Moors Desecrate Graves at Casa Blanca.

Tangier, Aug. 6.—The latest news received here from Casa Blanca is that a [illegible] panic reigns there.

All [illegible] are leaving the town. The [illegible] have had several skirmishes with the [illegible]. The French marines are awaiting reinforcements from Algeria before landing.

An [illegible] steamer has arrived here, bringing [illegible] refugees from Casa Blanca. These refugees were not permitted to leave in peace. In spite of the presence in the harbor of the French cruiser Galilee, a large body of Moors attacked the Europeans as they were embarking. They appeared, however, to fear reprisals, for they soon desisted, and proceeding to the Christian cemetery, dragged out a number of corpses from the vaults and began to burn them.

A body of troops arrived and opened fire on the Moors. A number of them were killed and the band was dispersed.

TWO PERISH IN A WELL.

Father Lost His Life Trying to Save that of His Son.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 6.—James Garrity and son, living at Refuge, 11 miles from here, were overcome by gases and died in a 60-foot well Saturday.

They were engaged in cleaning the well. The son, who was 17 years of age, went down to load the buckets. After a short while he called to his father and other men who were helping to pull him out, as he felt ill. He got in the bucket, and, after being drawn up a few feet, fell back.

The father went down and tied the boy in the bucket. After he had again been drawn up a few feet, fell back. The men at the top at this time noticed that the father was evidently ill, and another man went down. He found the boy dead and the father expiring.

Both father and son were taken out. Mr. Garrity died in a few minutes after reaching the surface.

Author That Was Linked With the Manners of a Bear.

A DINNER WITH DEAN SWIFT.

Why the Whimsical Misanthrope Insulted His Publisher—Carlyle and Tennyson as Growlers—Stories of Handel and Von Bulow.

Carlyle, in addition to his other troubles, was a great sufferer from dyspepsia. He was therefore anything but companionable in intercourse with his friends, nothing but fair in his estimate of other writers.

Although Carlyle personally liked Tennyson, he spoke with impatience of his [illegible] "Idylls," dismissed Jane Austen's novels as "dishwashings," Wordsworth, on occasion, as "dry as dust" and Coleridge as an "Irish blackguard." Even the writers of editorials in the Times were scored by the irritable sage of Chelsea. "What are these fellows doing?" he asked. "They only [illegible] one another."

A characteristic incident illustrates Carlyle's disposition to inflict pain even [illegible]. An artist who frequented the house of Carlyle painted a picture [illegible] in his dressing gown smoking a pipe by the fireside and Mrs. Carlyle [illegible] sitting opposite him. [illegible] was hung at one of the Academy's exhibitions and, [illegible] a striking work of art, was [illegible] by Lord Ashburton, Carlyle's friend, for $500.

The delighted artist hurried off to [illegible] expecting congratulations [illegible] some manifestation of [illegible] part at having such [illegible] placed on a picture of thoroughly [illegible] domestic interior. He [illegible] the chief things, but the [illegible] he got from Carlyle was: [illegible] was just $495 too [illegible]

"[illegible] do they follow mean by leaving [illegible] sort load of stones at my [illegible]

Tennyson himself, though not nearly [illegible] to the Chelsea sage, was [illegible] capable of a growler on occasion. Especially did this tendency on [illegible] manifest when he suspected a disposition on any side to [illegible] him.

It is related that at a dinner in London [illegible] which he had gone much against his will at the solicitation of [illegible] the poet laureate soon discovered that the company were expecting [illegible] sort of thought from him. [illegible] at the gathering in such [illegible] ability to disconcert some of [illegible], as if purposely to utter [illegible] unpoetical remark he could [illegible] a grim smile he turned to [illegible] all the guests in absolute [illegible] the slightest word of [illegible] greeted out:

"[illegible] I like my mutton cut in [illegible] slantish, madam, in chunks!"

[illegible] greatest grouch of literary [illegible] Dean Swift, that whimsical [illegible] who evinced a morbid [illegible] in humiliating his social inferiors. [illegible] he himself when young [illegible] contemptuously affronted by his [illegible]

[illegible] had acted as private secretary [illegible] William Temple. Once when [illegible] was confined to his bed [illegible] the king, William III., visited [illegible] and Swift officiated as his [illegible] guide, through the gardens [illegible] Moor. The king taught the [illegible] how to cut asparagus in the [illegible] way, and Swift had also the [illegible] of seeing him eat the vegetable.

Years afterward, when Swift was [illegible] of St. Patrick's cathedral in Dublin, his publisher, Faulkner, called at the deanery on business connected with some proof sheets. Having been detained until near dinner time, he was pressed by the dean to dine with him. Asparagus was one of the vegetables, and the guest asked for a second helping.

"Eh," snapped Swift, pointing to Faulkner's plate, "first finish what you have upon your plate!"

"What, sir? Eat the stalks?" asked the astonished publisher.

"Aye, sir. Eat the stalks or you'll have no more! King William always ate his stalks," added the dean in his most imperious manner.

Whereupon the meek Faulkner, yielding to the dean's will, ate the stalks most submissively.

Shortly after the dean's death Faulkner was relating the incident as an illustration of Swift's insolence.

"And you were silly enough to obey him?" asked some one.

"Yes," replied Faulkner, "and let me add, sir, that if you had dined with Dean Swift you would have eaten your stalks too."

John Hunter, the famous English surgeon, was a man of great eccentricity and of most bearish manners. His wife, a witty and beautiful woman, was the friend of many distinguished persons of the time—the eighteenth century—her intimate friend being Mme. d'Arblay. The two were the moving spirits of a sprightly salon. But Hunter, whose mind was set on science to the exclusion of all else, gave scant approval to his wife's pursuits.

On returning home late one evening he unexpectedly found his drawing room filled with musical professors, connoisseurs and others whom Mrs. Hunter had assembled. Hunter was greatly irritated by the presence of these guests. Walking straight into the center of the room, he addressed the astonished company in this strain:

"I know nothing of the purpose to hold such a kick-up. I should have been informed of it beforehand, but as I am now returned home to study I hope the present company will at once retire."

Which "the present company" at once proceeded to do.

Handel, the musician, possessed a great natural wit, which was frequently spiced by his rather caustic references to the merits of his fellow musicians.

When "The Messiah" was being performed in Dublin, Dubourg led the band and one evening had a finale to make ad libitum. Following the fashion, the violinist took his cadenza through various keys and continued this improvisation until the uneasy Handel began to wonder when he would really come to the "shake" that was to terminate the part and bring in the other instruments. Eventually Dubourg finished the cadenza with a grand flourish, whereupon Handel, to the great distress of the leader, put his hands to his mouth and shouted across the hall:

"Welcome home, welcome home, Mr. Dubourg!"

On one occasion a perturbed singer had some warm words with Handel, who had been making some sarcastic references to his ability, and wound up by threatening to jump on the harpsichord that Handel played.

"Let me know when you vill do dat," retorted Handel, "und I vill advertise it, for I am sure more peoples vill come to see you jump than to hear you sing!"

It has been said that the frankness of another noted musician, Hans von Bulow, almost equaled that of Handel.

Bulow was accustomed at one time to meet a large class twice a year in Germany at which many members were listeners, while those who wished to play might send in their names to him. Sometimes Bulow chose those whom he preferred and sent out for them, while the rest waited in terror for their turn to come. This nervousness of anticipation was not without cause.

An awkward English girl one day went to the piano and, frightened almost out of her wits, managed to play her selection after a fashion.

"Ach!" roared Bulow. "You blay the easy passages with a difficulty dot is simply enor-r-mous!"

Once in playing at a concert Bulow stopped abruptly and ordered the ushers to turn the piano around. His reason was asked, whereupon he replied that a woman in the audience annoyed him unspeakably by fanning herself out of time.

As far as the audience was concerned, Bulow always made a point of doing exactly as he desired. On one occasion the orchestra he was conducting had just given a very long Brahms symphony, quite beyond the comprehension of any but the musicians among the listeners. When the audience failed to give Bulow the applause he expected he turned upon them furiously.

"What! You do not like it? I vill teach you to like it!" and he had the entire composition played through again from beginning to end. Brahms was always applauded after that, if only in self defense.

But when a Leipsic audience insisted on recalling Bulow, despite his repeated refusals to play again, he came forward and said, "If you do not stop this applause I vill play all Bach's forty-eight preludes and fugues from beginning to end!"—Edwin Tarrisse in St. Louis Republic.

HAD AN AWFUL TIME.

But Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Cured Him.

It is with pleasure that I give you this unsolicited testimonial. About a year ago when I had a severe case of measles I got caught out in a hard rain and the measles settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time and had it not been for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not have possibly lived but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy I am now strong and well. I have written the above through simple gratitude and I shall always speak a good word for this remedy.—SAM H. GWIN, Concord, Ga. For sale by all druggists.
